DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 2-4, 10-17 and 23-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over WO 00/10417 (Britek Footwear Development LLC, i.e. Britek '417) in view of Fowler 3,834,046. Britek '417 discloses all the limitations substantially as claimed including the following: a plurality of stretchable/resilient layers spaced apart from one another; the layers having a first side and a second side; a plurality of actuators; each actuator positioned on the first side of at least one of a corresponding stretchable/resilient layer; a plurality of chambers; each chamber being positioned on the second side of a corresponding stretchable/resilient layer; the plurality of stretchable/resilient layers lie in substantially the same plane; the plurality of actuators include a heel actuator, a toe actuator, and a metatarsal actuator; the sole construction is part of a footwear insert; the sole construction is part of a footwear upper; the perimeter wall is shaped to correspond with an outer border of the resilient layer. Britek '417 does not disclose an outer perimeter wall surrounding a corresponding stretchable/resilient layer to prevent horizontal displacement of the layer. Fowler '046 teaches that a stretchable/resilient layer can have a perimeter wall that is adapted to fit over the peripheral edge of the sheet below to positively position the layer on the sheet (col. 4, lines 1-6). This wall lines the sheets up horizontally and prevents horizontal displacement of one sheet with respect to the other. Therefore, it would have been obvious, to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, to place perimeter walls on the sheets of Britek '417 to aid in lining the sheets up with one another and prevent horizontal displacement of the sheets.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 5-9, 18-22 and 25 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37

Art Unit: 3728

CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
